

In a visit to our Southern hemisphere, you palled around with some locals at a bar, where you may have noticed that the brews were served on Platonic solid platters -- on your next visit you should really try some of their cues.