

And finally you, once finished with the main itinerant part of your treed here a while to reminisce, pull together a few last loose ends, and then find your way back to your own land.

You are now part of our history, and we yours. We are grateful for the difference you have made within our borders. We truly hope that, having helped write yourself into Bookspace's story, you'll have discovered how to return home and continue your own.