

You waded through a slew of musical theater works, where composers decided to, for some of the lyrical partner or another famous librettist for the job of helping make the songs complete.